Who is Andrei Neagoie?

Andrei, lead instructor of Zero To Mastery Academy, has taught more than 1,000,000 students worldwide, many of whom now work for world-class companies like Apple, Google, Amazon, Tesla, IBM, Facebook, Shopify and many more.

Andrei has worked as a Senior Software Developer in Silicon Valley and Toronto for many years. Having learned important lessons from working for Fortune 500 companies, tech startups, to even founding his own business, he is now dedicating his time to teaching others valuable software development skills so they can take control of their life and work in an exciting industry with infinite possibilities.

Having been a self-taught programmer himself, Andrei understands that there is an overwhelming number of online courses, tutorials and books that are overly verbose and inadequate at teaching real-life skills.

Most people feel paralyzed and don't know where to start when learning a complex subject matter and they aren't able to spend thousands of dollars on a coding bootcamp.

Andrei believes that programming skills should be affordable and open to all and that educational materials should teach current, real-life skills and topics.

Combining his experience in educational psychology and coding, Andrei's courses will allow you to learn complex subjects in a fun and interactive way that you never thought would be possible.
